

had trained in Greece. [REDACTED] I was in the cockpit going over the check list when I heard a lot of screaming and cursing in the back of the plane. I hurried back to the cabin to find out the trouble and was shocked to see one of the agents we were going to air-drop that night had the German down and was beating hell out of him. The other three were trying to pull him off the guy."

After the fight was stopped, the mission was cancelled. Manchester finally found out the trouble.

"The German had been in charge of the SS guards at a concentration camp where the agent, a Russian, had been imprisoned. He recognized the German immediately and tried to kill him. He kept yelling that no one could trust the SS, that they all should be hanged."

The distraught agent, whether he knew it or not, made a prophetic statement that night when he said the SS couldn't be trusted. Even Gehlen had come to the conclusion that there were persons in his organization leaking information to the Soviets and his first suspicions were centered on the former SS members in his Org. He didn't tell Dulles of his suspicions, however. He didn't want to lose the financial support of the CIA.

RECEIVED AUG 02 1988

Dr. HANS-GERD JASCHKE

Dammstr 3
6115 Münster W-Germany
Tel : (06071) 3 44 88

July 27, 1988

James H. Critchfield
President
Gulf Futures Inc.
6715 Whittier Avenue
Suite 300
McLean Virginia 22101
USA

Dear Mr. President,

By order of WDR (= Westdeutscher Rundfunk, a TV-station) I am preparing a TV-feature (45 minutes) about the history of General Reinhard GEHLEN, former president of the BND and "Fremde Heere Ost" (FHO) during World War II. On recommendation of President Dr. WIECK I was informed, that you met GEHLEN when he was in the USA as a war-prisoner 1945/46.

I am very interested in that period of his life and questions concerning his turning from a FHO-officer to the american foreign policy after the war. What were the reasons for the agreement between GEHLEN and the CIC/CIA? How developed discussions between both? Do there still exist documents about it?

I am told by the BND that you will be in Germany in September. Could we arrange a meeting? I will be on the way for shooting the film with a TV-team from 19th September to 7th October, beginning in the southern part of Germany (Munich area), finishing in the northern (Hamburg area and West-Berlin). Some days before shooting I will be in Munich and before at home in Münster near Frankfurt.

I would be very pleased if we could meet together.

Yours sincerely

Hans-Gerd Jaschke

Dr Hans Georg JASCHKE